Academic Highlights

Despite its relatively small student body, Jamestown High School still manages to outscore surrounding schools in the annual Pennsylvania Standard School Assessment (PSSAs) tests—an exam conducted annually to determine each student's level of proficiency in Mathematics, Science and English

Large numbers of Jamestown students have also managed to qualify for the National Academic games—a glowing testament to the efforts of both teachers and students and no doubt a contribution to its high “Overachiever” ranking at 7th place among more than 500 other school districts
